ABOUT ME

I'm a self-starter with a passion for designing digital products. I have a background in retail/wholesale/e-commerce as well as UX design experience. For the past 9 months I have dedicated myself to conceiving, researching, wireframing, mocking up, and developing my own web application. Now I am eager to help create, package and deliver the next groundbreaking product.

WHAT IS CARDCADIA?

Cardcadia is a central trading hub where Magic: The Gathering players can find trades both locally and abroad.

Our goal is to connect our users and create a thriving community that contributes to the joy of playing, trading, and collecting Magic: The Gathering cards.

Give Cardcadia a try and experience an easier way to trade.

SIGN IN

Please sign in using your Facebook account:

Or with one of your other favorite services:

Why don't we use traditional email sign up?

I chose to use social authentication as a primary means for login / signup for many reasons:

- Ease of use
- Users not required to remember yet another username/password for login
- Potential social applications (sharing, posting, referrals)
- Security (connecting a social account to the application account deters false account creation to help ensure 1:1 ratio of users and accounts)

My research showed users were familiar with social logins and had used them in the past

WELCOME BACK, DANNY

This box is draggable, can be minimized to a compact view, or simply closed and docked in the upper right corner of the screen.

For premium members this space can include quick links, deck builder, inventory viewer, and any other feature expansion that comes in the future.

For basic users this space can promote premium, display site news and updates, or smiple user specific messages.

The single column layout is designed to create a seamless flow from one section to the next. It also allows the user to focus attention on each section as a whole without the distracting elements found in a two-column layout.

The color scheme is familiar to users (derived from M:TG colors) and is used throughout site to help user location within application.

As Pending Trades and Suggested Trades share much of the same functionality, a distinction needed to be made between the two. Color helps define that distinction.

Trade Flow for Return User

The graphed data is taken from a series of user surveys I created and published using Google Forms.

Surveys were submitted to closed forums for TCG players with the hopes that those participating in online forums would also be willing to try online trading methods.

With over 1500 survey responses to over 90 questions, the results showed that the majority of responders were not only open to using a trading service, but nearly half were willing to pay for one.

Other questions helped determine layout options for design as well as site heirarchy and user flow.

Number of Cards Traded in Single Transaction

Would You Use an Internet-based Trading Application

Do you press Enter or Return after typing in a search?

Willingness to Pay Subscription for Card Trading Service
